

Schüler*innen der Klasse 7c verfassten im Englischunterricht in einer „Poetry Corner“ Gedichte zu selbst gewählten Themen, deren Bandbreite von Tieren und Gummistiefel über Kreativität bis hin zu Sternschnuppen ging.

Overjoyed

by Marlene Aubele

Happy means sunshine when I feel fine.

Happy means chocolate and when I see a cute cat.

Happiness is mine!!!

SHOOTING STARS by Tabea Ebert

It's a summer night,
I look out of the window,
The stars shine so bright.
Suddenly the stars fly low,
it's a beautiful sight.

The sky starts to glow
In the middle of the night,
It's the best show,
It holds me tight.

Everywhere there are shooting stars,
All over the midnight sky.
They reflect on the cars
Although they fly so high.

I suddenly start to cry
After some time,
Because the night with the stars says goodbye,
And so ends this rhyme
With a first poetry try.

Happy pets

by Lea Schranz

My pets are so funny ,
they make my life sunny.

And I am so happy,
they all aren't snappy.

My dog is a puppy,
she is always happy.

Mali likes to play
and sleeps all the day.

My cat is called Murrel.

She looks like an Urmel.

She is very pretty because she's a kitty.

My four guineapigs are nice,

they love fruit and not ice.

And when they want to eat,

they make lots of "squeak".

My life is so colourful,

my pets make it wonderful.

They are the best pets for me and I am so crazy

about them.
